ABOUT POSTGRADUATE PROGRAMMES

Postgraduate study at AIU, whether through coursework or supervised research, is deeply rooted in the emerging field of Social Business—a concept introduced by Nobel Laureate Professor Muhammad Yunus, where business solutions are leveraged to address social challenges.

A central focus is research that generates impactful solutions and/or business-oriented initiatives aimed at reducing poverty, unemployment, and net carbon emissions—the "Three Zeroes" identified by Professor Yunus as the most pressing challenges facing society. Postgraduate candidates from diverse disciplines are encouraged to remain within their fields of expertise while also exploring intersections with social impact.

AIU's postgraduate programmes are designed to cultivate mature, practical thinkers with specialized skills that contribute directly to the creation of a socio-economically sustainable and environmentally conscious society.
